THERMO ELECTRIC wishes to advise that it has fortunately incurred little to no real negative impact on its vendor supply chain by the recent catastrophic events in Japan. As with so many companies in the world, Thermo Electric enjoys a significant amount of business with Japanese customers and suppliers alike. It would appear that our business dealings with Japanese companies remain solidly intact as little to no serious disruption in business activity has occurred given the preponderance of our activity with firms in the southern part of Japan.

Nonetheless our deepest sympathies and condolences are to be extended to those Japanese families and businesses that have been traumatized by the natural disaster. On behalf of all of the members of the staff at TE we wish Japan well in its efforts to quickly recover from this tragedy.

The awesome power of nature once again serves as a reminder to all mankind that there are forces in the universe beyond human comprehension and those forces must be respected and understood as best we can. It has shaken not only Japan but all of mankind in witness of the devastation of these horrific events.

We salute Japan, “The land of the Rising Sun” and the will and fortitude of the Japanese people. We are confident that they will once again prevail and assure this special island a quick recovery and reinstatement of its place in the world as one of the leading economic powers.
